

Ann Dolin's Bio (Abbreviated)

As a mom and former public school teacher, Ann Dolin knows how stressful it can be to support a child throughout their academic journey. For nearly 30 years, she's dedicated her career to helping families overcome that stress. Today, she serves as President of Educational Connections, a tutoring company that's served over 10,000 students.

She also empowers parents with award-winning books, online content, engaging presentations, and regular media appearances on outlets like The Washington Post, Parenting Magazine, NBC-4, and more. With a strong conviction that school doesn't have to place unnecessary stress on parents or children, Ann is committed to equipping parents and students to succeed academically and enjoy the K-12 journey together.